BOBASHELA

Dedication

To David Carlisle Hull, Second President of Millsaps College, we dedicate this, the seventh volume of The Bobashela

President David Carlisle Hull

President David Carlisle Hull

IN its first issue since the new administration came in the Bobashela takes pleasure in introducing to the public our new president, Dr. D. C. Hull.

The choice of a successor to Bishop Murrah was a matter of serious import, not only to the College and the patronizing Conferences, but to the cause of education throughout the State. It is needless to say that it was regarded with the keenest interest by both undergraduates and Alumni.

The Board of Trustees, therefore, acted wisely in taking time for action. Every eligible educator in the Church who was thought to be available passed under review, and their qualifications were carefully canvassed before a decision was reached. The time and the conditions called for no ordinary man. The College, under the wise management of Dr. Murrah, was already an assured success along the line on which it was originally projected, and it could not afford to take a step backward by making a mistake in the choice of his successor. Moreover, important changes in the college organization were necessary to fit it for the larger field which it was to occupy, and this called for a man well versed in school methods and discipline, of mature experience, in full sympathy with young men, and thoroughly devoted to the work of teaching and character-building.

The choice made by the Trustees has already been demonstrated; President Hull is "making good." Not least among his assets in early life is the fact that he was brought up in the wholesome atmosphere of a Christian country home. To these advantages of heredity and environment, he has added the important third factor of success in life, which has been called "individual self-assertion." Of the last, while it has never been offensively exhibited, tradition has preserved a notable instance in which it is said that once upon a time during vacation he routed a former teacher, who had done him an injustice, by a strenuous appeal to the argumentum ad hominem. Under changed relations this might be thought a dangerous precedent, if his broad shoulders and athletic build did not warn an offender that it might be best to let by-gones be by-gones. In the following extract from the New Orleans Christian Advocate of June 30, 1910, the main facts in Presiden Hull's life are so admirdably given that we may be pardoned for quoting them in full:—

"Mr. Hull was brought up on the farm in the county of his nativity, and attended the common schools maintained about the neighborhood where his parents resided. He joined the M. E. Church, South, at fourteen years of age under the pastorate of Rev. W. S. Lagrone. In 1890 and 1891, he was a teacher in Choctaw County. He entered the Agricultural and Mechanical College in September, 1881, and was graduated with first honors in June, 1895. While taking his collegiate course, he was especially active in religious work, and made his influence strongly felt in the Young Men's Christian Association. Upon leaving College he taught for several years in leading public schools, making a fine record as an instructor: since 1902 he has been one of the Faculty of the A. and M. College, where his faithfulness and efficiency have won him high distinction. He has done considerable post-graduate work, having taken the Master of Science degree at his Alma Mater, and pursued courses of study two summers at the University of Chicago. Mr. Hull is closely identified with the educational interests of Mississippi, being Vice-President of the State Teachers' Asosciation, and has wide acquaintance among the educators of the State, by whom he is held in high esteem. He has been a licensed local preacher since 1890, and is a speaker of great force and impressiveness in the pulpit and upon the platform."

With such a past, with his powers at their best, with the confidence and esteem of the teachers of the State, and with the enthusiastic and loyal support of the students and faculty, President Hull already enjoys an earnest of a brilliant career.

The Bobashela, therefore, extends to him its greeting in the hope that he may live long to demonstrate his gifts as "a wise builder," known far and wide as a "maker of men."

History of Class of 1911

MOST strange to relate, 1911, unlike all other classes that ever went through college, has never been given to proclaiming its manifold merits and achievements from the housetops. Why? For as the "loud laugh speaks the vacant mind," so does the shrill voice proclaim those virtues which, Alas! are so sadly missing. The truly great show their superiority by deeds, unheeding the envious glances and acts full of malicious intent of their inferiors.

Four years ago there came together some four score and ten persons who organized themselves into a class. At that time they were mere infants and knew nothing of the ways of college life. The Seniors called them "foolish little Freshies," but they uttered not a word in reply. This term, however, was not applied to them, when, a few months later, their football team met and defeated every team in college without once having its goal crossed.

The next year we came back as Sophomores, feeling rather mature in knowledge. We no longer feared the "Hyenas" which had chased us when we were Freshmen. Our class was organized promptly, and remembering the achievements of the previous year, we determined that we would again excel in the class-room and upon the athletic field. This dream came true; in our studies we became famous, and upon the gridiron we were again supreme. Our football team was the envy and wonder of the other classes. In that year we were introduced to Dr. Sullivan and his wonderful Chemical Laboratory. We did nothing that would interest the scientific world, but we interested our teacher very much.

As we came back to school in our Junior year, we felt like "old men:" we could look back upon a work well done, and for our strong hearts the future held no terrors. When we counted our forces we found that our ranks had been thinned until there were only a score left to carry on the fight. This saddened us somewhat, but then we remembered that superiority depended upon merit and quality rather than upon mere numbers. Being unable to get out our usual ball team, we had to be content with doing mental gymnastics.

This last year we came back walking with a firm and dignified tread. The years that had passed seemed only a dream: the future held promise of great things. When the class was seated in the coveted Senior section of the Chapel, we gazed around and found that some few faces were gone, but these remaining we knew had been "weighed in the balance and found not wanting." We have done nothing unusually great this year, but we have tried to act our part in such a way that the college will be bettered by our presence. In all things we have stood for the betterment of our beloved college, and for the inculcating of higher ideals.

The time is fast approaching when the class of 1911 will be no more; when we will have to go forth into the world each to fight his own battle, and each to make his own mark. Heretofore we have been treading a beaten path, hard at times to follow, but still the way has been blazed by those who have gone before. Now we have come to the point where the paths diverge; each path leads in a different direction, and each will have to follow his own path. For four years we have stood together, and in that time a spirit of fellowship has grown up between the members of our class. We hope for a continuation of that spirit. Somewhere out there in the future that stretches before us, after we have left the walls of this college, we shall fall upon the words I write here now, and something of the hope and promise of this day will thrill us then. Whatever little differences that the years have placed between us shall vanish like the morning mists, and we shall feel ourselves bound by links stronger than steel.

Now, as each member of this class goes out into the world, let him remember what 1911 has stood for in the past, and let him ever be true to the ideal which has been set before him. Each one has a work to do, and as we wander down life's rugged pathway this thought shall be paramount in our minds:—

"I live for those who love me;
Whose hearts are kind and true;
For the Heaven that smiles above me,
And awaits my spirit, too;
For the cause that lacks assistance;
For the wrongs that need resistance;
For the future in the distance;
And the good that I can do."

R. C. Berry, Historian.

Reminiscences

Chapter I.

We often look back on the troubles
We had just four years ago.
When the class of eleven were Freshies;
And all of us certainly know,
That
We took Ph. B. for the Hist'ry,
Some the B. S. for the Math,
And some the A. B., because "Daddy"
Had already chosen the path.
Ah,
How we "sprachten der Deutsche,"
And busted in Latin and Greek.
At first, though, we thought it quite jolly,
Those seventeen hours a week!

Chapter II.

We then became wise little Sophies—
Trig. and Analytics were a bore.
We busted and busted and busted,
H2O from our eyes would just pour.
But,
French and Chem. were the limit,
And did we our German adore?
Yet always on gridiron and diamond
We certainly piled up the score!
And,
Then came the Sophomore story
With pains and troubles we'd write;
And often, 'tis sad to relate it
We did it late Saturday night!

Chapter III.

We next were enrolled as wise Juniors.
We worked until we were ill
Learned all about dear carbon atoms
And made H2S with a will.
And
Learned a great deal about Hist'ry,
What Doc. Burgess meant by a "state."

We studied about composition,
Read Beowulf both early and late.
Then
We became very fond of those specials.
Our money disappeared like the wind.
A more generous set of young students,
The faculty never could find.

Chapter IV.

Then we came back in September,
And proudly occupied section one,
And after much cramming and busting
We knew our tasks were most done.
Yet
During this year full of pleasure,
There was mingled a tinge of regret,
That school days were over forever,
And we knew we would never forget,
That
We love our dear Alma Mater,
Her royal old Purple and White,
May her banner float proudly forever,
An emblem of honor and right!

MYRTLE JOHNSON, '11.

Will and Testament of Class of 1911

IN THE NAME OF OUR ALMA MATER—AMEN.

We, the Senior Class of 1911, being of sound mind and clear memory do constitute this our last will and testament:

Item 1. We give and devise our senioral dignity, our political, religious, and class-room schemes and tricks, to class '12 as a very present help to inspire awe in the breasts of the underclassmen.

Item 2. We give with pleasure all the ease and luxury that comes to Seniors at Millsaps; also all the genuflections that the Faculty insist on enacting before the majesty of the Seniors, to the aforenamed class, its successors and assigns.

Item 3. We hand down the vacant places in the "Bobashela Booster's" club, the Bobashela itself, and places of luxurious ease on the Hoodlum staff, and a fee tail estate in the broad acres of cussing that go with these important honors, to our lawful successors.

Item 4. We give, devise, bequeath, and donate our beloved Commencement daily to succeeding Senior Classes and the hope that it will be filled with news of great deeds.

Item 5. We leave an example of class unity on all important matters, of doing work we could not shirk, of taking zeros and blame without flinching, to all students that may hereafter enter.

Item 6. We give our complimentary copy of the neat little manual, "How to Make Splinters Fly From Blockheads," by the Faculty, to our successors.

Item 7. We devise, give, and bequeath to the Millsaps Poultry Raiser's Association our rule to get the chicken roosting high, our patented noiseless tread, and lightning speed on escape, and all cooking utensils, together with our coat of mail for protection against the modern projectiles used by irate inhabitants of the vicinity.

Item 8. To future worthy busted students who may need the same, we give the balance of our "special fund" that is found after final auditing of books.

Item 9. To the Chinese Empire, we bequeath our distinguished member, Ming Ung Zung as a finished product of western civilization grafted on oriental stock.

Item 10. To the free state of Lee County, we give back her Nimrod, the greatest living rival of T. R., whose heroic deed of killing a grizzly Bruin with his naked fist is unequalled in the annals of the chase.

Item 11. To future B. S. Candidates, we give our active stock in the Millsaps Science Association, as the sesame of the inner-most recesses of the past, present, and future ages, and as the revealer of sanitary secrets. Also our note books and the advice ever to take all notes, trips, and specimens possible, and not to ask Dr. Sullivan to travel with Mississippi legislators.

Item 12. To A. B. students, our livery stables, well equipped with all the modern conveniences go. It will be well to be prepared for the keenest variety of competition from the experienced and foxy old stablemen, Messrs. Swartz, Huddleston, and Noble.

Item 13. To Dr. Sullivan, keeper of the Millsaps Zoo, we donate the only bunch of its kind in captivity, towit, and severally: a wild aborigine, Savage, captured in the jungles of Union County four years ago, who walks with his head hanging forward and to one side, and sniffs and sputters at the spectators; "Big" Johnson, an unclassified varment from the thickets of Panola, which, in four years training, has been taught to walk upright on his hind legs; "Skeat," alias "Big Sis," a quaint old-maid-like animal of the biped species caught near Collins; "Jake" Bingham, caught in Webster, and believed by "Sully" and other rank evolutionists to be the long lost "missing link"; "Stubby" Hart escaped from Barnum and Bailey and captured by Millsaps Faculty; "Ros" Berry, a peacock caught at Prentiss while showing his feathers to his fellow-townsmen, who has been taught to wear clothes better than most humans; "Pug" Green, a Ringling Bro's gorilla that has an almost human expression, and whose favorite diet is granite, pig iron, and "blue billy;" "Collins," a proud and stately old gander which blows at the spectators;; "Tom" Phillips," a ferocious lion which can roar in many keys; and a few prehistoric specimens of the genus homo, among which we might mention "Star Hanger" Holifield, "Zack" Taylor, who never surrendered, "Sister" Henderson, who sits and blinks at you for hours. We also give to "Sully," to quiet the fiercest of the Zoo, and only man to serve as assistant keeper. Coggin who once killed a naked bear with his fist. Also for Millsaps Campus we provide a most beautiful Park, historic Knowles, and a valuable (Lin)field and appoint Miss Johnson, keeper of the same.

We hereby appoint the members of Millsaps Faculty the executors of this one last will and testament, and formally revoke all our former wills and codicils and require that said executors give bond in the sum of $8,000,000.00.

In witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands and seal, this the sixth day of June 1911.

LEAVES FROM A FUTURE "BOBASHELA"

Volume XXVII—1932.

Editor's Note:—It is with great pleasure that the editor of this, the twenty-seventh volume of "Bobashela," publishes the following letters of the Class of eleven sent him by the Chairman of the committee appointed by that class for the purpose of receiving and circulating said letters among its members. This class is one of the last that went from the halls of Millsaps before it became what it now is, one the greatest Universities in the South. This is an unusually loyal class and very unusual it is that we should have received letters from each and all of them after the lapse of twenty years.

New York, N. Y., January 1, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

After twenty years of study and research, which began in my Senior year at Millsaps, I have at last found a method of exterminating the long dreaded hook worm, which worked so much havoc in America. For full description of my invention see current number of "The New York Medical Journal."

The final perfecting of my patent will prevent my attending this, our fourth renuion.

With regret,

F. B. COLLINS.

Nettleton, Miss., January 1, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

Fate has dealt kindly with me since my college days. I now own a splendid farm in Lee County, Mississippi. I have a beautiful home, a sweet Christian family and all that one could wish for in this life.

Sincerely,

W. C. COGGIN.

Shanghai, China, January 2, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

After finishing my law course at Harvard, I began the practice of law in this city. I have an extensive practice that enables me to provide splendidly well for Mrs. Zung. I remember, with pleasure, the days spent in America, more especially the ones at Millsaps.

M. U. ZUNG.

Cross Roads, Miss., January 2, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

There is little to write. I have a good practice that yields the princely income of five hundred dollars per annum. Mrs. Johnson says I will be judge in about forty years more. We have just moved into a nice three-roomed mansion, all our own. Bill and Sally, our youngest, are in school this year.

Hastily,

C. E. JOHNSON.

New Orleans, La., February 2, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

Since our last reunion, my already thriving lumber business has built up rapidly until now it is the largest in the South. Since then, too, I have taken unto myself a better half and was never so happy as I am now.

The International Convention of Lumbermen meets at Hamberg, just a few days prior to our Class reunion this year, and I regret that it will be impossible for me to be with you.

Wishing each of you success,

Sincerely,

I. C. ENOCHS, JR.

Jackson, Miss., February 14, 1931.

The Class of '11,

I am exceedingly sorry that I shall not be able to attend the reunion, but owing to a pressing business engagement must beg to be excused. Am still happy and untethered by the entangling bonds of matrimony, and if our business continues to increase as up to date, will deem myself quite satisfied with life.

ALBERT GREEN.

February 16, 1931.

Dear Classmates,

When I left the walks of Millsaps, I thought that I was best fitted for the profession of law. I practiced law for fifteen years with great success, but I was not satisfied, so I am now here, in what was once the jungles of Africa, as a Missionary, and am doing much towards the betterment of our black brothers.

R. C. BERRY.

Bismark, North Dakota, February 14, 1931

Dear Class,

I am enjoying a good law practice. I am in partnerhsip with my uncle. Still live in single blessedness. In the words of the immortal poet, I believe that "'Tis better to bear those ills we have than fly to those we know not of." I intend to go into politics this summer. Will run for constable of my heat.

J. S. SAVAGE.

New Orleans, La., January 1, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

It will be, to my regret, impossible for me to present at the reunion this year. I have been incarcerated in the city Calaboose since the last suffragette demonstration here.

Very sincerely,

MARY BARROW LINFIELD.

Berlin, Germany, May 30, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

It is impossible for me to be at the reunion, and, as I cannot be present myself, I am sending to each member of "Our Class" my latest book, "Faust as a Source of American Literature." It has met with great success and I have received an enormous royalty from it.

Gluck Auf,

ALICE MYRTLE JOHNSON.

Junoville, Mars, June 1, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

An unfortunate collocation of circumstances will prevent my presence at the reunion this year. The masonry of my bridge across the Martian Canal needs immediate repair.

Regretfully,
J. W. HOLIFIELD.

Soo Chow, China, June 2, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

The conference here has just closed, and I have had the delightful privilege of appointing several old Millsaps men to their charges.

The work of the missionaries here is now giving glorious results, and China will, in the near future, rank as one of the most powerful of the Christian nations.

With best wishes,
H. C. HENDERSON.

Zilpha, Miss., June 3, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

I am now a busy man, but I still enjoy life all the time. I am as optimistic as ever, and never get too busy to laugh and have fun. My maximum salary is five hundred dollars a year, and we are living in our own cottage home. John and Mabel are in school now and our prospects for the future are delightful. Excuse haste, my wife is calling me.

Yours for fun and success,
R. J. BINGHAM.

Belle Prairie, Miss., June 10, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

After leaving Millsaps, I entered Texas A. and M. for the purpose of studying scientific farming. I am now farming in the Yazoo delta and have the best plantation in the county. My friends have forced me to enter politics, electing me to the office of Constable last election.

With best wishes for all members of eleven,

T. H. PHILLIPS.

Denver, Colo., June 1, 1931.

Dear Class,

Not being able to attend our reunion in September, I will write instead that you may know how fortune is serving me.

After finishing my course in civil engineering at Georgia School of Technology, I began the practice of my profession here. I have met with success and have a number of large contracts before me.

I have faced the problems of life alone, but so far while there's life there's hope.

With best wishes,
J. B. TAYLOR.

Convent of St. Dominic, New Orleans, La., May 15, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

Since I last saw all of you I have chosen my vacation for life. I have entered the Convent. I am a Sister of the Order of St. Dominic. Although it is, of course, impossible for me to be at the class reunion, I would have you know that you are not forgotten. I shall ever remember each one of you with best wishes and prayers.

Sincerely,
SR. ANESTHESIA,
(Adele Cecelia Knowles.)

Gulfport, Miss., June 5, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

For the last twenty years I have been working as a photographer. My yearly income has often amounted to as much as three hundred dollars and I have supported myself and family in comparative ease.

Hoping to be with you all at the reunion,

Yours sincerely,
Z. TAYLOR.

New Orlens, La., June 20, 1931.

Dear Classmates,

Since coming to the Crescent City I have been engaged in the pawn broker's business, and am glad to say that I have not missed my calling.

I am not a poor man,—no, not necessarily so,—but I intend to wait a few years yet before taking on the added expense of a wife.

I will probably be with you at the reunion. In the meantime, luck to each of you.

Yours truly,
S. F. HART.

Bachelors Club, Dale Ave., Davis, Oklahoma, June 8, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

Twenty years ago this very day we received our last kindness from the faculty of Millsaps; also their blessing with perhaps more feeling than was customary. Bless their hearts! What patient people they were!

For quite a number of years I have been the junior partner of a fairly successful law firm, and am enjoying life to the fullest. But the old fossils, loafing about in the club rooms here, aren't the fellows that the old time bunch were, who occupied Section I in 1911.

Here's hoping that I'll see each one of you at the reunion in September.

Yours for success,
T. W. LEWIS, JR.

August 8, 1931.

Dear Class of '11,

I am sorry to say that it will be impossible for me to come to the reunion this time. Things at the farm are in such a state that I cannot get off. The fact of the business is er—well, I'm going to get married on the same day that we had set for the reunion.

Yours for a bright future,
S. E. WILLIAMSON.

New York, N. Y., September 10, 1931.

Dear Classmates,

Work in the slums of this city has demanded practically all of my time for the past two years, or I would have been with you the first of this month. I was indeed sorry to learn that this, our fourth reunion, had proved a failure for I fear we can hardly have another.

The work here is absorbing and my success has been far greater than I had hoped for. I refer you to the current number of the "Atlantic Monthly" for my latest article on its progress.

Wishing for each of you unbounded success,

I am still,
MARGUERITE PARK.

Law Class History

HOSE who are members of the Law department have not been associated together as long as the members of the Senior Class of the Literary department. Nevertheless, there exists a feeling of friendship and brotherhood among the members of the class that will long be remembered. In fact it would be hard to forget some of the legal lights; Hair, for instance, with his extremely ruddy complexion cultivated by over-much blushing; or Reuben Gulledge who has developed an enormous intellect, if we are to judge from the size of his caranium—he only wears a seven and three quarter hat; or Brother Saxon, who sustained the loss of a limb in a saw mill accident, but who, his fellow students think, can by his superior head-work overbalance any injury he may have sustained; or Truly with his ever-recurring smile; and by no means let me forget to mention the name of "Bull" Green, that all-'round man speaking from a rounder's standpoint; and Hopkins, who, altho from Sullivan's Holloy, calm and unscarred, and in fact in good physical condition.

Of the twenty-three members of the Law Class, '11, three are married men, and other twenty-three have been skidooed by the fairer sex; three came from other southern states, than our own, while Mississippi is anxious to get rid of the remaining twenty-three; three are insurance agents, and the other twenty-three are self-appointed skidoo's; three are stenographers, while the other twenty-three take great pride in the fact that they are someday to be dictators. There are in the class four college graduates, two of the University, one of the A. & M. and one from Millsaps. Besides the above mentioned institutions, V. M. I., Sewanee, and Mississippi College have representatives in the class.

The members of the present Law Class hail from states all the way from North Carolina to Louisiana. They have followed occupations all the way from driving oxen up to chauffeuring automobiles. A great number have been farmers, others school teachers, and others stenographers. The greatest number have been laboring assiduously to keep out of work. Amongst our classmates we find some of the handsomest and some of the uglist, some of the biggest sports and some of the untidiest in wearing apparel, some of the deepest thinkers and some of the shallowest brains, some of the greatest rounders and some of the most modest and moral of men, some of the most lax in the spending of their collateral and some who would skin a flea for its hide and tallow.

We depart now from lectures and quises and enter the starving period. May we all endure it and come out all the more benefited by the fast.

"Old Grimes is dead, that good old man,
We ne'er shall see him more,
And Snodgrass too has crossed the creek
And landed on the other shore."

It is our business to resurrect them.

Junior Class History

THE history of the Junior Class is a long procession of remarkable achievements and successes. The record of this class is exceedingly gratifying to parents, members of the Faculty, and to the class itself. No doubt these brilliant records have been used as illustrations of the splendid work required of Millsaps students; however, we hope that one will not loose sight of the fact that this is distinctly the individual record of the class of '12.

In 1908, sixty timid Freshmen assembled, each ready to try his fate as a college man. The tree of knowledge seemed to have been shaken in our midst, and with amazing rapidity did we collect the fruit. With proud heads did we pass over Trig. and Analyt. as if they were mere trifles scarcely demanding an anxious thought. Now a few are pursuing the study of Calculus with more than ordinary success. In Latin our translations have easily rivalled those of our friends, Hinds and Noble. In Chemistry we have baffled Dr. Sullivan in finding a suitable name for some of the newly discovered substances. Surely no one would be so heartless as to accuse the Juniors of being "short" along the line of contributions to the College, for we certainly have taken an extraordinary number of Special Exams.

For two consecutive years we have won the Football Championship; also on the Varsity teams the class of '12 has always had a larger number of representatives than any other class. The two best Athletes in the College last years were 1912 men.

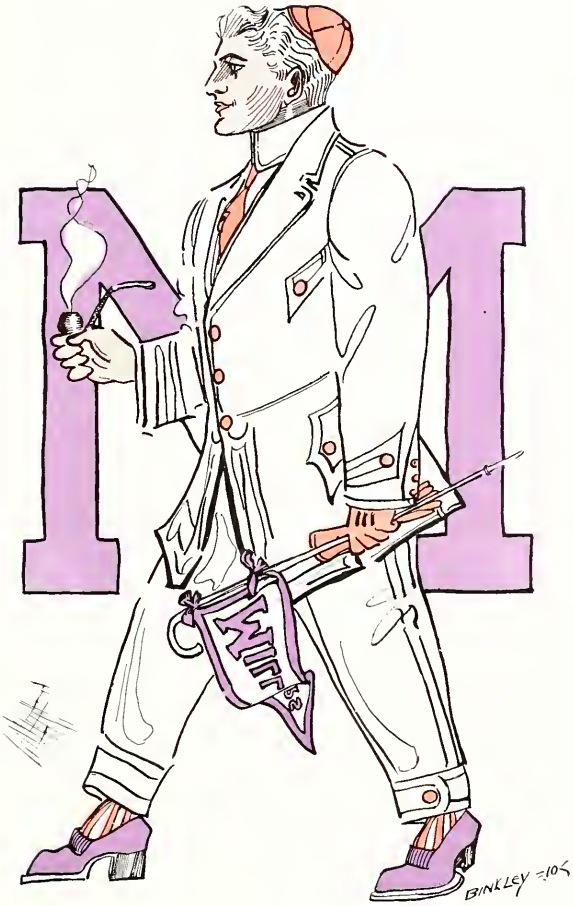

Athletics is by no means our only fort, for we enjoy the distinction of being the first class for many years to send a man as M. I. O. A. representative in his Junior year. When one wishes to hear a good speech, instead of buying a ticket to hear some prominent speaker from a distant state, one simply goes to the Millsaps Literary Society Halls where a Junior is going to speak, for the Juniors have always been foremost as orators and as debaters.

We are proud to say that our class has produced some of the most successful officers of the Purple and White staff, especially along the line of Business Managers. On the Bobashela Staff our men have been at the forefront, acting with their characteristics enthusiasm. As for the Y. M. C. A., we have as many true Christian workers as any class can boast.

With this brilliant record already made, now that we are about to enter that much dreamed-of realm of Seniordom, may our future accomplishments even excell our past and equal that of our predecessors!

"Let not the illusion of thy senses
Betray thee to deadly offenses.
Be strong! Be brave! Be true!"

History of the Class of 1913

To the careful student of history it may seem unnecessary to deal at length with the isolated Esquimos or with the unsociable inhabitants of Thibet, for these people will probably never play an important part in the history of the world. But when there is gathered together in one body so much knowledge, so much physical prowess, so much beauty, and so much ability-in-general as assembled in the Freshman section on September 29,. 1909,—"the world should listen then—as I am listening now." Allow us, therefore, gentle reader, to pour into the expectant auricular orifice of the universe a brief account of our name and fame.

Pursued through the dark and devious ways of the classics by the demon T. A. and his troop of attendant spirits, we found our own speed insufficient to outstrip the monster, and hence prayed to those patron saints of college men, Hinds and Noble, for quick relief. In exchange for our prayers and sundry denarii they sent a shipment of ponies to our aid—and we rode with safety and ease through the domains of Anabasis, Homer, Cicero, and Virgil, and many another old Greek buck and Roman worthy.

To relate further deeds of prowees would be but "wasteful and ridiculous excess," especially when we have already filled the small amount of space allotted by the Bobashela Board. We have but begun, and we leave to future historians the task of recording our achievements in adequate fashion and abundant space. With Ulysses, we may call our classmates to press forward, reminding them that,

> "Some work of noble note, may yet be done,
> Not unbecoming men that strove with Gods.

History of the Class of 1914

The 29th of September, 1910, marked the beginning of a new era for Millsaps, for on that day there gathered from the four corners of the earth the greatest Freshman class that Millsaps has even known, a class noted not only for their learning, but also for their looks. After the T. A.'s were paid for, each member, although broke utterly and completely, felt his responsibility and settled down in earnest. Some became great French scholars, others were remarkable in Trigonometry, while in Bible with Cain and Daniel and a host of ministerial students, we were wonders.

When exams came all felt ready to go in and make hundreds more or less, but after they were over, some were busted, some were disgusted, and others quit the class. As a whole this wonderful class came out well, although they were humiliated to know that on the catalog exam some of their number had failed. In athletics the standard was not lowered, and great things are expected from the class in this respect in the years to come.

And now the Freshman year is over! How wise we feel! How proud of what we have accomplished, and how anxious and how eager to win greater victories next year! We are no longer green; we feel sure of ourselves now; we shall succeed. And when the next three years are over the deeds of the class of 1914 will go down in history as an honor, a credit, and a glory to Millsaps.

The Love Story in S's

Sturdy Sammie Simpson sought sweet Sallie Steven's society so solicitiously, several social societies severally said sententiously, "Sallie's surely secured Sammie! Sallie's Sammie's sweetheart! Sammie's Sallie's slave! Society shall soon see something startling!"

Saturday Sallie sat sewing steadily, singing softly. Suddenly seeing Sammie's shadow, she seized scissors, snipped savagely, still singing softly.

Sammie said slyly: "Sweetheart, sing Sammie something sadly sweet." Sallie started, seeming surprised, saying, "Sammie Simpson, stop saying such silly stuff, spoony sentiments sound softly; say something sensible." So Sammie straightway said, "Sweetest Sallie set sometime soon." Sallie serenely said, "Say Sunday."

"Surely, surely," shouted Sammie, supremely satisfied.

Sequel.—Sammie Simpson safely secured: Sallie Stevens settled: Sammie's suited. Society's satisfied.

Lamar Literary Society

The Lamar Literary Society

In drawing the distinction between knowledge and wisdom, Tennyson has said that wisdom is applied knowledge. The Lamar Literary Society has ever striven to develop this power in its men. How well the society has succeeded in this great work is made manifest when we glance back over her past history. For the last six or seven years one of her men has been called upon to uphold the Purple and White Banner at the State Oratorical Contest. The faculty has likewise looked to her for a majority of the representatives to the various Chautauquas.

The past has indeed been a glorious success, yet it seems that as the society grows older its value increases, and when the history of 1910-11 is written, it will be seen that this year has far eclipsed all former records. Its meetings have been regular, the attendance good, the enthusiasm high, and the work, on the whole, has been the best in the history of the society. The members have realized as never before the meaning of the motto, "nulla palma sine labore," and they have striven to uphold this motto with an energy, and with a vigor, unparallelled in the history of the society.

With a record such as this, with a number of strong men in the society at present, and with the debaters and declaimers who will enter our ranks in after years, the members of this society have no fear for the future. Indications point to continued success; and no one doubts that any single factor will be more conspicuous in making the future history of Millsaps College memorable, than the work of the Lamar Literary Society.

H. H. Boswell, '13.

Amor Autumnus

'Twas through a wooded, flowered vale,
Where leaves of Autumn scattered lie;
Or, tossing, frolic with the gale,
We idly strolled, my love and I.

Her cheeks were rosy as the West,
Her eyes were bluer than the sky;
Her smile a witch's charms possessed;
O, we were glad, my love and I!

I long had loved, but ne'er could tell,
Beyond a love-look or a sigh;
Her simple smiles which seemed to spell
"We're only friends"—my love and I.

But on this golden Autumn day,
When every zephyr whispered, "Try!"
Resolved, I was to quit delay—
So while we wandered, my love and I,

In tender tones I pleaded long—
I saw the love-light in her eye;
O, fortune fair our lives prolong
To bless that day, my love and I!

Galloway Literary Society

Galloway Literary Society

The Galloway Literary Society was organized in November, 1892, which gives it a history almost as old as the College itself. The picture of the late Bishop Galloway, which adorns our walls, together with our motto, "Known thy opportunity," are indelibly stamped on the minds of our members, and inspire them to higher and to nobler achievements.

Whenever our men have locked horns with the representatives of our sister Society, Lamar, and with other colleges, we have won our share of the honors. For six successive years the Faculty selected a Galloway man to represent the college in the M. I. O. A. Each of these contestants won first place, thus reflecting credit upon the society, and adding fame to our much beloved institution. Two of the six captured the medal of the Interstate Oratorical Association. The contestant for this year, J. W. Broom, is also a Galloway man.

We would not have the public lose sight of the fact that our Society is one of the greatest political bodies on the face of the globe. Within our walls are manipulated political schemes and combines that would cause the Mississippi Legislature to sit up and take notice. But when the last election for the year is over, and the smoke of battle has cleared away, it is then we pray, "Father, forgive our politics as we forgive those who politic against us."

When we dip into the future as far as human eye can see, there appears before us still greater possibilities. When our men have gone out into the world to take their place in church and state, it is there that we expect to achieve our greatest success, and count for the most in life.

Young Men's Christian Association

EVERY man who comes to Millsaps is expected to become a member of the Young Men's Christian Association, and he is given an opportunity to do so as soon as he arrives.

The object of the Y. M. C. A. is well known the world over, for it has its organizations and members in every school and college in every civilized nation. It labors for the development of true and noble manhood in the highest degree. To gain this end there must be mental, physical, moral, and spiritual advancement and growth, and there is none of these which the Y. M. C. A. does not seek to foster and support. Her members rank among the best in every phase of college activity. On the athletic field, in the classroom, in social and religious life, her men stand as the first. The badge, a simple triangle on which are the words Spirit, Mind, Body, explains the mission of this great and world-wide organization—the equal and thorough development of man's three-fold nature.

Character is one of the strongest essentials of manhood, and the Association seeks by all possible means to develop in every student a character which shall be strong and true, and which shall be able to withstand the temptations and evils which daily assail men. Knowing that the true source of strength is to be found in a knowledge of God and His Word, Bible classes are conducted by the members themselves, and a strong and interesting Mission Study course is also presented. These classes are of inestimable benefit to every man who takes part in them.

Added to all of these are the weekly meetings, at which strong addresses are delivered by men who know their subjects thoroughly and present them well. Life work addresses by physicians, ministers, and other professional men; musical programs; the discussion of special topics by the students themselves; stirring addresses by missionaries and other strong men who are sent out by the general Y. M. C. A. Board, are all a means of education and uplift to the entire student body.

The Y. M. C. A., then, strives to build up and develop strong, true, and noble Christian men, who by their lives and deeds shall made the world better for their having lived in it.

For the Honor of the Frat

He wore his College frat pin
Just southwest of his heart,
And swore that from its resting place
It never would depart.

The years that passed still found him,
Unmoved and standing pat;
He ever wore his frat pin
For the honor of the Frat.

One day two eyes confused him,
His high resolve took chase.
A soft voice coo-ed his frat pin
From its old abiding place.

He took it from its honored throne
Where many years it sat,
And on her breast he placed it,
For the honor of the frat.

Now neither wears the frat pin;
Dear College days are o'er.
She caters to his every want,
He settles up the score.

His old time-honored spike tailed coat,
Now nests the snow-white cat,
While the frat pin fastens baby's clothes,
For the honor of the Frat.

You saw with all a poet's keen insight
The child-like heart of that black, simple folk
Of whom you wrote; upon whose necks the yoke
Of masterdom and service was as light
As were their hearts upon that Christmas night,
When the shrill violin the echoes woke
Of the slave quarters; and the banjo spoke
Until the happy hours had taken flight.
Unwitting of the work until too late,
The laurel we denied you others gave,
And alien hands have crowned you poet true;
Take now our full allegiance, laureate!
The while we deck the earth above thy grave
With this soul spray of roseleaf and of rue!

What Would Happen?

If Professors Burton and Burton should forget the Lord's prayer?

If Millsaps should really get inter-collegiate football?

If Prof. Ricketts should be absent from Chapel when Dr. Kern reads?

If "Bish" Rainey should buy some tobacco?

If Enochs and Beasley should get their diplomas?

If a fly should light on Prof. Huddleston's head?

If Scott only knew that all of the Co-eds were crazy about him?

If Dr. Walmsley should forget to mention Virginia in his lectures?

If Ramsey Roberts knew who voted for him for the most popular Co-ed?

If F. B. Smith should get caught at the Century?

If "Bill" Decell did not get a letter every day from Columbus?

If Dr. Sullivan should excuse his class before the bell rings?

If Johnson should enter Jackson Society?

If McDowell was not so lazy?

If Coggin should fall in love with a Co-ed?

If W. E. Morse could not read French with Miss Rogillio?

If Prof. Noble should announce his engagement?

If Mitchell should get to Biology on time?

If Keister should eat only eight biscuits for breakfast?

If Dan Bufkin were forced to cease talking?

If Dr. Swartz should forget to watch his hen-house one night?

If Rush should take anti-fat?

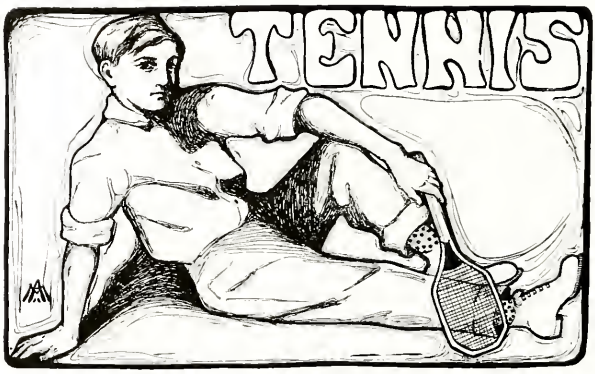

If the Tucker and Cain brothers should bring the rest of their brothers to Millsaps?

If Millsaps should turn out a winning baseball team?

If the faculty would only give enough work to keep the boys busy on Sunday?

If the passing mark should be raised again?

If Dr. Hull should close his eyes during prayers?

Athletics

INTER-Collegiate Athletics! "As the hart panteth after the water-brook," so have we thirsted after this, our long-deferred hope. At last we can hang our harps on the willows of Babylon, and strum no more on this old string. The Conferences have committed themselves to an athlete policy, and, even though they conceded our wishes with limitations, we have gained the better part of the fight.

"All things come to them that wait," true,—but "faith without works is dead." We have learned the truth of both scriptural injunctions. We have waited patiently and impatiently, with good nature and bad, these weary years to see the fulfillment of the first divine truth. But while we watched and waited in our own sweet temper, there were others who were abiding by the second text. Professor Burton, whose religion becomes him beautifully, gave his interpretation of the faith-without-works doctrine, as meaning, "You have got to go after everything you want." He converted Mr. Buie, Major Millsaps, and President Hull to his belief, and the quartette went forth to do battle with the powers that be, to gain our cherished boon.

Facts and arguments were necessary. But such a fight "would enable the flights of the highest genius and obtain pardon for the efforts of the meanest understanding." They won.

As when Hercules slew the snake-headed Medusa, and from her blood there sprang up the winged horse, Pegasus, so our long-pent-up spirit broke its bounds and flooded the campus with joy and enthusiasm when the news came that victory crowned our arms at Sardis, and once again at Hattiesburg.

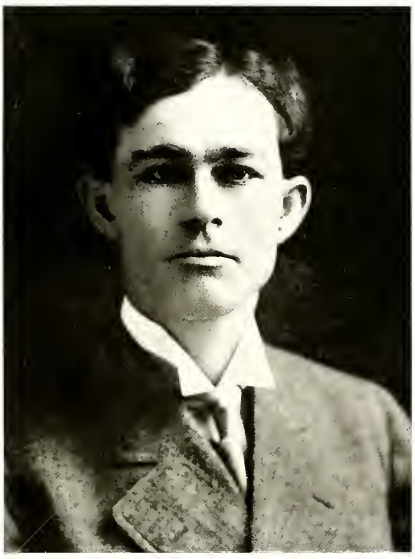

True we did not win all. Football was reserved as a forbidden fruit, but we won a decisive victory. With a little more watching and waiting, and a little more preaching of the faith-without-works doctrine, it will come.

Professor Burton dreamed a dream, and on the morning and evening of the second day he set about to fulfill it. His faith was as a grain of mustard seed, but he trusted that it would move the eternal hill at the rear of the dormitory. He sought out Major Millsaps and told the dream to him. He saw a level ground where-on a track was laid, a diamond, and a gridiron. He saw a grandstand rise upon the hilltop and over-look the field. He saw a club-house with its baths nearby. All this, he saw and more. The Major looked upon his vision, and behold! it was good. So they set about to move the hill at the rear of the dormitory and to make all things agreeable for the best Athletic field in Christendom.

Well, may we say that this has been a prosperous year for Athletics at Millsaps. We have gained our inter-collegiate games, and we will have an athletic field before the end of the season, that would make any College proud.

—N.

Webster Millsaps Buie

Millsaps has many older alumni, but none more loyal nor more beloved than Webster M. Buie, who shares with Professor E. Y. Burton, the credit for our present hopeful situation as regards athletics. Not only did these two, ably aided by President Hull, lead our forces to victory in the contest for inter-collegiate games, but it is to them, and to the ever-ready munificence of Major Millsaps, that we owe our possession of what promises to be the best equipped and most complete athletic field in the entire state. Mr. Buie's interest in Millsaps' athletics dates back to the years 1898-1900, when he creditably filled the positions of catcher and second baseman on the ball team and guard and half back on the eleven.

Since leaving college he has continued to fill creditably the positions that have fallen to his lot, the latest of these being that of second vice-president and director of the Citizens' Savings Bank and Trust Company of Jackson, to which he was elected at the last meeting of the stockholders. He is also private secretary to Major Millsaps, and besides being the assistant treasurer of the Board of Trust, he has the distinction of being the youngest member of that august body. He is a Mason, a K. of P. and a Kappa Alpha.

Notwithstanding the constant demands of business upon his time and thought, his love for his Alma Mater, instead of lessening with the passing years, has grown steadily. By this, the latest evidence of his ever increasing interest in the college, he has bound the student body to him by a tie which shall last as long as athletics endure at Millsaps College.

William Ackland Hammer

Died on guard, May 29, 1910.

"I could have better spared a better man."

To few of us is it given to find our own peculiar place in life and to fill it perfectly. "Dr. Ackland" was an integral part of the College, and for him 'heaven was here where Millsaps was, and every little stone and brick and tree and shrub' and every wanton act that marred the beauty of lawn or walk, were vital parts of a life of service. "After life's fitful fever, he sleeps well:" no prowling student, nor wilful ringing of his chapel bell provokes his righteous wrath; he has gone "where beyond these voices there is peace."
